SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR JANUARY 11

PETER AND JOHN HEAL A LAME MAN.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Freely ye have received, freely give.—Matt. 10:8.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Matt. 16:1; Mark 13:26; Luke 4:40; John 14:3; I Peter 4:13.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Lame Man Made Whole.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter and John at the Beautiful Gate.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Faith and a Healing Hand.

The indications are that some months had elapsed since Pentecost. The believers were being taught by the apostles who were showing their credentials by their authority.—Acts 2:43).

I. The Lame Man Healed (vv. 1-11).

1. The occasion (v. 1). Peter and John were going to the house of worship. They were going up to Jerusalem to worship in the way they knew full well the corruptions of Judaism. What is needed today is not separation from denominational bodies so much as for those who know the Lord and the fuller things of the Christian life to help and those who lack these things into the better way.

2. The place (v. 2). It was at the beautiful gate which led from the outer to the inner court of the temple. This man was placed at the entrance of the place of worship, because where man comes closest to God he is to come closest to his fellow man. Human instinct is quick to discern hails. Beggars are seldom found at doors of theaters and infidel lecture halls.

3. The man (vv. 2, 3). This beggar was infirm from his birth.

4. The method (vv. 4-6). (1) Gained the man's attention (v. 4). Peter and John commanded him to look on them. Having secured his attention they gave him more than he asked or expected. He asked for money and got healing. (2) Peter commanded him in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth to rise up and walk (v. 6). This was the very thing he had been unable to do for so many years. Was not this awaking his very impotency? No! No! It was in the name of Jesus. With the commandment went the ability to do. (3.) Peter took him by the right hand (v. 7). This act was meant to give him a petus to his faith, not strength to his ankles. (4.) The man's response (v. 8). Straightway came to his feet and ankle bones at once. He stood, he walked, he leaped and shouted and praised God. He thoroughly advertised the miracle. He ascribed the honor to God for his healing and walked into the house of God. The one who has experienced the life of Christ will surely make it manifest.

5. The effect (v. 9-11). The people were filled with wonder and amazement. The multitude ran together to see this wonderful thing. There was no question as to the genuineness of the miracle, for this man was a familiar figure for many years. This miracle may be regarded as a parable setting forth the work of the church in the world. (1) The helpless beggar had to be carried to the temple gate. Man and women out of Christ are spiritually helpless; they need to be brought, above all, life of God can be appealed to them. We should bring sinners to Christ. (2.) Taking him by the hand shows the manner of the Christian's help.

II. Peter Witnessing of Jesus Christ Before the Multitude (vv. 12-26).

This miracle focused the attention of the people upon Peter and John. Peter immediately turned their attention from himself to Christ. This is most unlike the claimants to divine power today. Disclaiming power of his own, he seized the opportunity to preach Christ to the people who had assembled. He told them it was faith in Jesus Christ, whom the God of their fathers had glorified, whom they had deliberately delivered up and denied before Pilate when he desired to set him free, and that they desired a murderer to be granted freedom instead. He showed that the disciples were also witnesses that God had raised Jesus from the dead, and charged home upon them their awful guilt; for they had denied the holy one and the just, and chosen Barabbas, a murderer, instead of Christ, and killed the Prince of Life. He appealed to them to repent (v. 19), telling them that they had committed this awful crime in ignorance. God would pardon their sin if they would repent. He assured them that Israel would yet enjoy refreshing seasons from the Lord, when God should send Jesus Christ back to earth to consummate the work of redemption. He appealed to the Scriptures as the basis of his warnings and promises (vv. 22-26).

Service of Life.

Life should be measured by usefulness, as it is to serve the world that we are called to live in it. And after all service, well and faithfully performed, brings the only real happiness; all the outward pomp and its signals of rank are but badges of service. "Not to be ministered unto, but to minister," not to be served, but to serve, is the utterance of the highest authority in spiritual matters. It was a most interesting object lesson that Jesus gave his disciples when he washed their feet.

Practical Knowledge Important.

A man ignorant of the past of his nation is not qualified to have anything to do with its present or future. To work understandingly we must know what this nation of ours is for—what is the plan and purpose.—Myron W. Reed.

VIRGINIA WOMEN FIGHT HIGH COST OF LIVING

Clubs Organizing Under Thrift Standard to Make Study of Plans for Bringing Down Prices to Consumer.

A new celebration has been added to the calendar of high days and holidays of the woman's clubs in Virginia. "Thrift Day", in large letters, is rapidly making its appearance on one after another of these club programs for the year, as the organizations complete their plans and signal the opening of hostilities against the rising cost of living.

Newport News led off by holding the first Thrift Day in this state. The Women's Club of Richmond followed recently with a big meeting at which Orrin Lester, associate director of the savings division, United States Treasury, came down to make a speech on "Spending" and was followed by Miss Isidora Ramsay Richardson, director of the women's division of the War Loan Organization of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, who told of the big things the women of Virginia are doing to promote the government saving movement. All over the state she said, she had found that women's clubs and societies were hard at work on a systematic campaign to put the business of spending and saving on a firm basis.

Clubs are Enthusiastic.

Mr. Lester went from Richmond to Norfolk to attend a celebration of "Thrift Day" held by the Woman's Club there. Mrs. W. B. Callander, city chairman of thrift, reports that practically every club in Norfolk has a chairman of thrift and is studying the subject assiduously. The Norfolk Day, held under the auspices of the Woman's Club, was made a pronounced success that the Housewives' League of that city forthwith decided to hold a Thrift Day of its own, in which the Housewives' League of Portsmouth will share and to which all the Woman's Clubs of both cities have been invited.

As a result of the Thrift Day observed recently by the Woman's Club of Lynchburg, it was decided by the committee, of which Mrs. J. W. Gooch is chairman, to devote a part of every club meeting this year to a systematic study of thrift, at which each member will be given opportunity to "say her say." An immediate result of this activity in the woman's clubs of the state is shown, says Mrs Mark Reid, thrift chairman for the federated clubs of Virginia, in the current report of materials in at least one district where the campaign is well under way, to the effect that there has been a marked decrease in the sales of unnecessary articles.

Every home demonstration agent in every county in Virginia has been asked to incorporate the study of thrift in her yearly program, and Miss Bill Agnew, who is in charge of the work in this state, hopes soon to have a thrift chairman in every club with which her deputies are connected. Literature telling of ways to help stem the threatening tide of waste-fulness has been mailed to these agents, who have already started to spread the good tidings in their districts or will be glad to help organize the work when consulted.

Great Interest Shown.

Exceptional interest, reports show, has been manifested in the model budgets prepared for average families and now being distributed by the War Loan Organization of this district. Requests for this budget are pouring in at headquarters in Richmond, Va., as housewives discover what vast savings in household expenditures may be effected by governing them in a business-like way. Another popular lesson is the booklet "Ten Lessons in Thrift," which many clubs are using as a basis for their thrift programs.

Women everywhere who wished to continue their patriotic work are welcoming this new opportunity for service. The evenings that were often saved in those first days of relaxation—"Now the women who have done such invaluable war work ever be content to go back to the old order of things" seems to have been answered in the negative.

The women are turning their energies to the next big national and world fab confronting them—that of bringing things back to normal by reducing waste and promoting thrifty habits of living. They hold the purse strings of the world. It has been pointed out, and upon them naturally devolves the duty of holding their purse strings tight by every artifice known to clever housewives.

And the United States government is strongly behind them in their efforts. Headquarters for the work in this district are at the War Loan organization, Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Isidora Ramsay Richardson, director of the women's division, will be glad to send to those writing for it any of the government thrift literature, including the model budget, and to mail her chatty weekly letter dealing that dolings in the feminine world of thrift.

Until the armistice was signed the bees on the other side had to trench constantly to secure protection. They will have to retrench to keep the advantage they won. War Savings Stamps, Treasury Savings Certificates and Liberty Bonds are the right tools to use.

Legend of Origin of Flowers.

In Sussex, England, the lily of the valley is said to be a memorial of the battle St. Leonard fought with a dragon. The holy man encountered the monster in the forest and battled with it for three days. At last the saint was victorious though wounded seriously, and wherever his blood dripped upon the ground there sprang up lilies of the valley in profusion. In France the lily of the valley is said to have sprung from the Virgin's tears.

Optimistic Thought.

A man of any honest trade may make himself respectable if he will.—Johnson.

NOTED LAWYERS DEFEND FEDERAL FARM LOAN ACT

McAdoo, Hughes and Wickersham Appear in Kansas City Court as Champions of Land Banks, Which Have Given Farmers $360,000,000 at Low Interest Rates.

America's system of rural credits was upheld in the federal court in a suit which questioned the constitutionality of the law creating federal land banks and joint stock land banks. Clarke E. Smith, of Topeka, head of the Kansas City Title and Trust company, brought suit to enjoin his corporation from participating in the work of those banks, contending that because those securities are exempt from federal, state and local taxation, they were issued in violation of the Constitution of the United States and conversely now that congress had no authority to create such banks. Judge John C. Pollock gave judgment against Smith at the close of the arguments, holding that the law is constitutional. An appeal was taken and the case will now go to the United States supreme court for final decision. The validity of the farm loan act being thus attacked, the government of the United States, the federal land banks and the joint stock land banks became parties to the suit. Mr. McAdoo represented the government as assistant to the attorney general and also, together with Solicitor W. Wickersham, attorney general under President Taft, represented the joint stock land banks of which there are now 37. Former Justice of the Supreme court Charles E. Hughes represented the federal land banks.

Hope.

Hope in anticipation, with possibility of realization. It is an inherent feeling in mankind and a divine provision for the sustentation of interests in life. Hope is a chord which strikes pleasant desires for the future; it is everyone's sunshine, the rainbow in the storm, the silver lining to the present cloud, a star set in the firmament of our lives to brighten, lighten and cheer the way and differs in magnitude and brightness according to occasion. Hope is an antidote of misery, a cordial for the despondling and a chain with many links.—Nellie E. Mate.

What Is Theory.

It may be defined as everything but the actual production of sound. For example, the performer should know the following: Items connected with the music to be interpreted. The key it is in, time, marks of expression, relative value of notes, pitch of notes, introduction of accidentals, interval, accent, phrasing, syncopation, directions referring to speed, slurs, special marks for emphasis on certain notes, intervals and many other things too numerous to mention. A knowledge of theory is essential to the proper interpretation of any music worthy of the name.

Where They Were.

On inquiring why they made so much noise upstairs, the servants told me that they were just playing "war." Pretty soon the noise ceased, all was still; becoming uneasy at the unusual silence, I went upstairs to investigate; they were nowhere to be seen; but after calling several times and asking where they were, a still, small voice from under one of the beds answered: "We daren't tell, but we's someplace upstairs."—Exchange.

As to Hocking and Speeding.

Hoarding your hen doesn't have as much an electrical result as does King Tutone.

Bunnies for Bonnets.

The soft felt hats which constitute the most distinguishing feature of the American soldier's uniform are made from rabbit skins. Not American rabbit skins, however, for the fur of the American rabbit will not make hats. It does not possess the necessary felting properties. Consequently the skins have to be imported from abroad, mostly from Australia. It has taken 20,000,000 rabbit skins to make the hats now being worn by the huge United States army. Since the war began Uncle Sam has bought 6,000,000 hats, and each hat contains the fur of six rabbits. In other words, every American soldier is going about with a half dozen bunnies on the top of his head. Each hat costs the American government $1.75. This is wholesale price. The ordinary retail price of similar hats is $4. The reason why these hats are so expensive is because the fine rabbit skins but practically all the other material that goes into them is imported from abroad. Thus the raw silk for the bands comes from China and Japan, and the shellac which stiffens the brim comes from India.

In the Grip of Light.

A student of physical science says that it is not because the moth is light-hearted, heedless and utterly frivolous that it plunges headlong into the flames, but because of the way that its body is constructed. There are two symmetrical points, exactly alike chemically, on the moth's body—namely, its eyes. If the rays of light modify the chemical condition of one side more than the other, then the moth's power of movement is affected. There is a stronger muscular tension on one side than on the other. If, however, one of the eyes is removed, the chemical symmetry is destroyed, and instead of plunging into the flame it moves gracefully around it. There are other animals and insects besides the moth which are hopelessly in the grip of light. If a snail is placed between a white wall and a black wall the unequal lighting forces it to crawl in a circle.

Ups and Downs.

Tourist—"Anything remarkable about this hill, driver?" Driver—"There's nothing peculiar about the hill itself, but there's a queer story connected with it. A young lady and gentleman went for a walk up here; they ascended higher and higher and never came back." Tourist—"Dear, dear me! What, then became of the unhappy pair?" Driver—"It is supposed that they went down on the other side, sir!"

First Overhead Trolley.

The first practical overhead trolley line was built in Kansas City in 1884, in which double overhead conductors were used with a trolley wheel riding on top of the wire. In 1885 a similar line was constructed in Baltimore and the Van de Poele system was installed in Toronto, Canada, and the next year in Scranton, Pa. Prior to this time experimental systems had been in use in Chicago, New York and Boston.

Xmas has passed and we are also traveling on the New Year One mile stone more in the Book of life! One more on the sick list, but we have hopes. Since a red seal on the setting sun We trust the good prognostics, it not, we should love to make this present passing year, serving the Lord and doing good to all mankind.

Xmas passed off very pleasantly both to the old and the young.

Our good merchant kept his store beautifully supplied with good things, which he found no difficulty in disposing of as the spirit of giving seems plentiful, some of the little ones wished that Xmas would last all the year, but still they seemed glad to get back to school. They are all very fond of their teacher. She seems to have the art for pleasing the little folks.

I agree with the Spout Spring correspondent that the one-room schools are much needed.

Farmers and all business people are at work this bright weather. We hear the axes ringing plant bed wood and some a building going on.

Our community is quite healthy, no flu or epidemic as an winter.

A shadow has been cast over all on hearing of the accident in which Mr Oscar baker was seriously injured.

WONDERFUL STEPPING STONES

LESS SAVER BIG SUM BUT ONLY TO LOSE IT

Man Did Not Follow Principles of Thrift—Sole Idea Was to Hoard Money Spending Nothing.

A modern Midas of Chicago, who had accumulated $200,000 by never spending anything, recently was declared incapable of handling his affairs. He became practically penniless because he saved $200,000 but because of the way he accumulated it. He estranged his family, went to bed with the chickens to avoid spending money for lights and lived on $15 a year.

There be an afool of the puzzling income tax law and now his children are in line for heavy savings. This modern Midas was not a thrifty man. He was a miser. True thrift enhances and increases the wealth of the world. Hoarding money benefits neither the miser nor his fellows. Wise spending is as essential as wise saving, and wise investment is as important as either. Wise spending for the comforts and pleasures of life as well as the necessities makes for the thriftiest and stimulates production. Wise saving and wise investment make possible the evolution of new wealth.

The world was but spends nothing. He secures only the meanest satisfaction of watching his pile of money grow. The wise economist of limited sound investment has the comforts and pleasures of life and the respect of his family and associates. If he had invested wisely he would have been competent to handle his own affairs.

"Waste not—want not" is still the modern axiom of thrift but "want not" must not be interpreted to mean not to spend the things that make life worth the living. Don't be a modern Midas.

PICKING UP THAT PIN

A story of E. H. Harriman, who died leaving an estate of $150,000,000, credits him with one day picking up a small steel hitter clip dropped on the floor by a careless employee.

"I'd like to have as my annual income," said Mr. Harriman, "the value of material thrown away every year by office clerks in offices in the United States of America. In a few years I'd be the richest man in the world."

"LIKE UM" and "LICK UM"

From faraway Tulsa, Okla., comes the story that War Savings Stamps are immediately popular. A number of Indians who have grown rich from oil wells discovered on their properties

"Pick-em-on" competitions are popular among the Indian Bucks and Squaws, who buy the $5 stamps in sheets, arrange their cards neatly and start licking and sticking at a prearranged signal.

After all the stamps had been stuck on during a recent contest the Indians capped the "field meet" by licking and racing to the post office to get the stamps registered. Silas Nose Smells-No-Meat won the race and had his stamps registered first. He had pasted on 4485 worth of War Savings Stamps in six minutes and fourteen seconds. His time to the postoffice was 66 seconds flat.

Put your money where it will do double duty for you—in War Savings Stamps.

Money saved is what counts. Invested in War Savings Stamps it grows day and night.

In a multitude of thrifts there is safety from worry. Buy wisely, save intelligently, and invest in Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps.

FIVE DEPARTMENTS ARE AIDING THRIFT

Government Bureaus Are Cooperating to Promote Widespread Savings Among All Classes of People.

Cooperation and coordination of government departments in aid of the national movement to promote regular saving, wise buying, sound investment and reinvestment are shown in a recent report to the Treasury Department.

Five departments—Treasury, Labor, Commerce, Agriculture and the Interior—are always carrying out practical characteristic of their special domain of work designed to accomplish the general aim—thrift. Not only are the same principles held in common but ideas and material are interchanged and employed to further the particular lines of each department work.

In the Treasury Department the Savings Division is endeavoring to bring home the value of sensible economy as a principle of living; to interpret thrift, not as miserliness but as the wise management of one's affairs, to live free of present and future needs and steadily saving for worthwhile purchases, to take advantage of an opportunity or against a rainy day. The Savings Division favors the Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps a practical implement to securing the power of a financial reserve.

Realizing that saving is greatly stimulated by having a definite object in view, the Department of Labor launched an OWN YOUR HOME movement.

The Department of Commerce, in connection with the Council of National Defense, is engaged in a BUY NOW, BUT ONLY WHAT YOU NEED campaign.

The Department of Agriculture by individuals have its county agents and home demonstration agents' organizing several thousand men and women, to educate the message of thrift in all their work.

In the Department of the Interior the Bureau of Education is making thrift an important part of its Americanization program and of its school and library work. The Indian Bureau has hired seasonal and collier agents to assist in bringing home the value of intelligent saving and safe investment to the Indian service.

INTEREST

Here is what one man did. If I don't know him you know some like him in your community. Twenty years ago he owned the clothes he stood in and that was about all.

He saved fifty dollars the first year, the next year, with a little better wages, seventy-five.

One thing with another—a wife, a family included—he has saved average of five dollars a week for twenty years.

What he saved in twenty years—about five thousand dollars. What he has is twice five thousand—like it sun in the parable.

His dollars working for him netting him more than his yearly savings.

Make Thrift a happy habit through War Savings Stamps.

Money spent is money gone; invested in War Savings Stamps it stays with you.

Many Interesting Reports Made of Her People.

The New Year begins with beautiful weather, bountiful supplies of farm and home made products, with prices high and getting higher for what you have to sell and what you have to buy. Extravagance in dress is noted in some instances and people who use to be at work, are now taking more joy rides in automobiles than their means would seem to warrant, but that's their business, not mine.

Spools of cotton with only 100 yards retailing at 15 cents each, carning needles selling for 5 cents each, but an egg used to sell for one cent and a dozen for one cents and now an egg still pays for a needle. I have bought good wheat in former days delivered at a mill for 60 cents a bushel and then a good many would pass it a 12 hour day to 45 cents. Flour in local millers are selling flour at $12.50 a barrell and coal at $22 a bunch. Does a merchant today have a lot of sugar put up in two pound packages which he was offering for 25 cents a pound. Local mills will be populous with the very best of laborers who should be at work on the farms but making corn and hominy. Two years ago I was offered about $5 each and they took an appeal to the circuit court.

The object of this suit is to partition a tract of land of 276 acres, more or less, standing in the name of Sam Johnson, in the County of Appomattox, Virginia, and to divide the proceeds of sale among the parties entitled thereto.

And to partition a tract of land standing in the name of Sam Johnson, in the County of Buckingham, Virginia, containing 241 acres, more or less, adjoining the lands of Ollie Johnson and others.

And an accounting having been made and filed in this cause by Commissioner Coleman, which shows that they do not own enough land in Appomattox County to allot to each of the parties entitled thereto a tract of land of the quality of land in said county as good as they own in Buckingham County, and that it would be necessary to convey from the Buckingham land to the Appomattox land a tract containing 74 acres, more or less, and that it would require $100.00 to equalize the exchange of lands, and an order having been made and entered in this cause on the 16th day of December, 1919, directing that they do appear here on the 5th day of January, 1920, and show cause why they should not convey to the Appomattox land the tract of land in Buckingham County, and pay the said $100.00 to equalize the exchange of lands, or in default thereof that the Buckingham land be sold to make the said $100.00 and the costs of this suit, and it appearing that the defendants Willie Johnson, Fannie L. Johnson, Virginia Johnson, Sam Johnson, Jr., Lucy Johnson, Lizzie Jane Johnson, George R. Johnson and Bertha Ann Johnson are infants over the age of fourteen years and have no guardian, it is ordered that they do appear here on the 5th day of January, 1920, and make choice of a guardian, and in default thereof that the Court will appoint a guardian for them to protect their interests in this suit.
